EXPERIENCE

Independent Developer — Personal Projects & Self-Directed Learning

3 years of project-based learning and practice

• Practice building responsive web interfaces using HTML, CSS, JavaScript, and frontend frameworks.

• Develop full-stack knowledge by studying server-side development, API integration, and database-backed application patterns.

• Use Git and GitHub to practice source control and organize code for personal projects.

• Explore interactive web application ideas, including educational and quiz-style experiences with questions, scores, and dashboards.

• Troubleshoot code, research technical problems, and refine projects through self-directed learning.

• Continue developing skills across the web stack; experience is based on personal projects and learning, not formal employment.
